SUMMARY OF RESEARCH AND DIDACTIC ACTIVITIES

Carlo Vezzoli is Full Professor of Design at the Politecnico di Milano University and since 1995 has been working in this institution with research and educational activities focused on design for sustainability. Currently he holds the course of product Design for environmental sustainability and the course of System Design for Sustainability within the School of Design; he is the head of the research group Design and system Innovation for Sustainability (DIS) and the coordinator of the research lab LeNS_lab Polimi.

Today he is internationally regarded as one of the major experts in design for sustainability. In fact, he is the funder and coordinator of the Learning Network on Sustainability (LeNS www.lens-international.org), an international network of Higher Education Institutions aimed at the development and the diffusion of the design for sustainability discipline in worldwide curricula with a multipolar, open and copyleft ethos. Today the network counts 152 universities/institutions from 27 countries organised in the following 17 regional networks: LeNS_Africa, LeNS_Brasil, LeNS_Colombia, LeNS_Argentina, LeNS_Mexico, LeNS_Perù, LeNS_Oceania, LeNS_China, LeNS_India, LeNS_Iran, LeNS_Vietnam, LeNS_Turky, LeNS_EU german countries, LeNS_Italy, LeNS France, LeNS Portugal; LeNS_USA and LeNS_Europe. The establishment of such network has been supported by three consecutive EU funded multiregional projects promoted and coordinated by himself: (2007-2008) LeNS - The Learning Network on Sustainability (EU AsiaLink program) with 7 universities as partners from Europe and Asia; (2013-2016) LeNSes - The Learning Network on Sustainable energy systems (EU EduLink II program) with 7 universities as partners from Europe and Africa; and (2015-2018) LeNSin - The international Learning Network of networks on Sustainability (EU Erasmus+ programme) with 36 universities as partners and associate partners from Mexico, Brasil, South Africa, India, China, and, in Europe, United Kingdom (Brunell University), The Netherlands (TUDelft), Finland (Aalto University) and Italy (Politecnico di Milano). Of note, he promoted the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) "LeNS Europe Alliance of Design for Sustainability Centres (DFS) in Top Higher Education Institutions (HEIs)" "able to lead a renewed and reinforced agenda on DFS on a European scale, while being connected with the worldwide network" signed by the Brunell University, the TUDelft, the Aalto University and the Politecnico di Milano, promoting synergies in research and didactic activities among those institutions.

In these last two decades of research and teaching on the role of design for sustainability, his areas of interest extended, moving from competences in the selection of low environmental impact materials and energy resources, to the design of environmentally sustainable products, the design of Eco-Efficient Product-Service System, the design for social equity and cohesion, and more recently to System Design for Sustainability for All (including low and middle-income people/contexts). This last item also focuses on the access to sustainable energy for all within a Distributed Economy (DE) framework.

Overarching his increasingly articulated framework of research and contribution to the design knowledge-base and know-how, three elements strategically drive his research and didactic activities:

- the search and consolidation of an international scientific community of reference;
- a fruitful and effective integration between the research activities and the didactic offers; and
- the search of modalities and a continuous activity of applied researches and design consultancies for companies and other socioeconomic actors.

He increases his international good standing with continuous participation in international research projects (16) with public funding (European Union and United Nation Environmental Programme), having a coordinating role on 12 of them. In these researches, he explored the theoretical and operative role of design for sustainability of products, services and systems. The most salient experiences are, chronologically: 1998-2000: national coordination of EU funded research (Environment and Climate Program) Strategies towards the Sustainable Household; 2001-2004: coordination of the design research area for EU funded research (5° Framework Program) MEPSS. Product Service Systems Methodology - Development of a toolkit for industry; 2005-2008: coordination of the design area for EU funded research (6° Framework Program) SCORE! Sustainable Consumption Research Exchanges; 2007-2010: coordination of the EU funded research (AsiaLink program) LeNS. The Learning Network on Sustainability. Network for curricula development on Design for Sustainability focused on Product-Service System; 2011-2013: national coordination of the EU funded research (Culture program) TANGO-Towards A new iNtergenerational Openess; 2012-2014: national coordination of the EU funded research (Life+ program) Sustainability maker; 2013-2016: coordination of the EU funded research (EduLink program) LeNSes. The Learning Network on Sustainable energy systems. Multi-polar and open network for curricula and lifelong learning capacity development focused on locally-based Sustainable Energy System Design; and 2015-2010 coordination of the EU funded research (Erasmus+ program) LeNSin. The international Learning Network of networks on Sustainability. A Multi-polar and open network for curricula and capacity development on design for sustainability focused on Sustainable Product-Service Systems (S.PSS) applied to Distributed Economies (DE).

He coordinated 5 nationwide (Italian) research projects with public funding (and participated in another 6 for a total of 11 projects), funded both by the Italian Ministry of University and Research (MIUR), and by the Italian Environmental Protection Agency (formerly ANPA now ISPRA). Some of these projects aimed at influencing the qualification of the curricular offerings on design for sustainability at Italian universities, leading to the establishment in year 2000 of the first Italian network of Higher Education Institutions (RAPi.rete now renamed LeNS_Italy), together with the design and development of a Package of 3 software support tools for teachers and students on Life Cycle Design (LCD).

Since 1999 he has been continuously engaged in applied research and design consultancy for companies and other organisations and institutions. Since then he coordinated 18 national and international privately funded projects (for a total of 20 projects he participated in directly).

Some of those consultancies were focused on product design with low environmental impact and on Product-Service System design for sustainability, such as the design consultancy for an eco-efficient lighting system for Artemide, the design of an eco-efficient draft drink dispenser for General Beverage (food and beverage), the scenario and concept design of Eco-Efficient Product-Service Systems for ASM Brescia (city waste manager), for Kone (elevators and escalators) and for Tetra Pack (beverage packaging). Other applied researches projects include the development of specific knowledge and support tools for the design of low environmental impact products for specific companies or professional associations, including: NECTA vending (vending machine), Dandy Line (electric beds), Illy (coffee and coffee machine), GIFCO (professional association of corrugated cardboard producers), Federlegno (professional association of furniture producers), Area Tortona lab (exhibitions/events promoter), Caremi (furniture), Soliani (furniture), Fumagalli (building components) and Bonaveri (mannequins).

An experimental design research approach characterises some projects on sustainable mobility, for example: the Sunride (MULO) project, leading to the prototyping of a hybrid solar/electric/human powered four wheels light vehicle that participated to the non-competitive crossing Roma-Maranello for zero emission vehicles; the Vehicle Design Summit (VDS) project coordinated by Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) of Cambridge USA, dedicated to the development and prototyping of a low-impact vehicle and its system; the System design for sustainable mobility pilot project for low income contexts in Africa, promoted by United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) with some African universities, resulting in the design of vehicles and their services system for the transportation of drinkable water in Burkina Faso, of vegetables and fruits in Zambia, and of disabled people in South Africa. For this last project, a hybrid solar vehicle, is prototyped in location by a partnership between Politecnico di Milano, a local university, a private company and a couple of NGOs.

He promoted other activities for the diffusion of design for sustainability including 9 exhibitions and the promotion and coordination of 10 national and international awards/design competition on sustainable innovations.

Other activities:

1. 4.2006 – today: co-coordinator with Ceschin F. (Brunel University, London) of SunRide, open project, for sustainable mobility in low and middle income contexts. It is based on an open and creative common licensed design of a four-wheel hybrid solar/electric/human powered vehicle by Fabrizio Ceschin while he was member of the DIS research unit at Politecnico di Milano. A prototype was realized by the Research Unit Design and System Innovation for Sustainability of Politecnico di Milano in collaboration with IPSIA Ferrari of Maranello, and funded a pool of companies. With the involvement of some degree thesis students, the project has been redesigned few times in collaboration with local stakeholders in Burkina Faso, Zambia, South Africa, West Bengal, Brasil and Senegal. The project in South Africa resulted in a new locally manufactured prototype tested for the transportation of disabled people and driven by marginalized one
2. 9.2006: participation to the Progetto Levante, traversata Roma-Maranello per veicoli a zero emissioni (Levante project, traversata Rome-Maranello for zero emission vehicle, with the prototype of MULO/SUNRIDE, promoted by the Municipality of Maranello, Nakanihon Automotive Collage (Japan), IPSIA Ferrari di Maranello and DIS-INDACO Politecnico di Milano.
3. 2005: co-promotor of the Distretto di Economia Solidale (DES) di Milano (Solidarity Economy district of Milan), together with associations, companies, cooperatives, local governmental institution and group of people.
